

Kimberly M. Walmsley

Paralegal

kwalmsley@verrill-law.com

Kim's responsibilities as an intellectual property paralegal include managing the patent docketing system and corresponding with foreign associates with regard to filing and prosecution of foreign patent applications. She is also involved in many aspects of the filing and prosecution of U.S. and international patent applications.

Kim has more than 20 years of experience as an intellectual property paralegal, having worked at firms in Washington, D.C., and Boston, Massachusetts. She is a graduate of the University of Virginia.

In her free time, Kim enjoys cooking, running, hiking, and photography. During the winter, she can also often be found in hockey rinks around Massachusetts watching her son's games.

Education

- University of Virginia (B.A.)

Services/Industries

- Intellectual Property